Guadalcanal Diary

"A Jap machine gunner opened up on the truck."

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15—Two members of our little group of war correspondents have shoved off, and in a hurry. They decided, after the big battle of the ridge, that this campaign is going to turn into another Bataan. Bob Miller and I, being somewhat punch-drunk, are more inclined to view the future cheerfully.

This morning the Raiders told us some good stories of valor in the ridge battle. Best of them all were the exploits of Lewis E. Johnson, of De Beque, Col., who was wounded three times in the leg by grenade fragments. At daybreak he was placed in a truck with a dozen other casualties.

But as the truck moved down the ridge road, a Jap machine gunner opened up and wounded the driver severely. The truck stopped. Then Johnson, painfully, dragged himself into the driver's seat. When the motor would not start, he used the starter for traction and pulled the truck 300 yards over the crest of the ridge. Then he got the engine going and drove to the hospital. By that time he was feeling so refreshed he drove the truck back to the front for more wounded!

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18—The rumor that reinforcements were enroute to Guadalcanal was substantiated today when they arrived. Early this morning, a certain colonel told me: "I can't say anything more, but I'd recommend that you go for a walk on the beach." I went to the beach and saw warships, transports and cargo vessels steaming into sight. All along the beach then, our weary veterans watched as new troops, thousands of them, boatload after boatload, swarmed ashore. They were Marines, wearing clean utility suits and new helmets, and they talked tough and loud as they came ashore. One of our veterans told me he had been talking to some of the new arrivals. "Huh," he growled, "these guys want to tell US about the war!" And we knew then that it would take some time with these men, as it had with us, to get rid of that loud surface toughness and develop the cool, quiet fortitude that comes with battle experience.

"Huh," he growled, "these guys want to

Our reinforcements are certainly welcome. But the enemy landings at Guadalcanal still go on. Bit by bit, they are building up their forces—even now, so soon after their second big attack has failed. Last night, for instance, the Jap ships which shelled us probably also landed their daily stint of troops.

Revolt in Europe May Cause Allies to Strike Quickly

Analysis of the News by Mackenzie

Editorial Comment
Written Today and Moved by Telegraph or Cable.

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

We may have the forerunner of sensational developments in the reports that Holland and part of Belgium are seething with revolt against their Boche oppressors, and that patriot bands are springing into action from one end of the continent to the other.

All the occupied countries of Europe, and some of the small satellites, are smoldering volcanoes which need little to set them into violent eruption. Maybe the Dutch and Belgian movements are not enough to turn the trick — and we most certainly shouldn't be hasty in reaching conclusions — but there always is the possibility that the trouble may spread from them.

Should civilian Europe suddenly rise against the Huns it would create an entirely new situation. Allied planes might go by the board almost overnight and have to be supplanted by new ones.

Military tactics, grand or minor, depend on circumstances of the moment. The successful commander is the one who is quick to capitalize any favorable development.

Britain's Montgomery owes much of his fame to his ability to recognize opportunity and seize it. Rommel — defeated but still a master soldier — placed so much store by quick decisions that he went into battle in a tank with his troops.

Sometimes circumstances are the outgrowth of deliberate planning by a high command or a general. More often they are spontaneous developments which have to be dealt with on the spur of the moment.

Thus one can see that the reported revolt in Holland and Belgium might spread and create a situation that would compel not only Hitler but the Allies to later prepared plans. Mind you, I'm not predicting anything, because we haven't enough facts to go on, but even if the present revolt dies out, there still will remain the threat of a continent-wide upheaval at any time.

The question uppermost in the minds of most military chiefs and observers is when will the Allies be able to invade France across the English channel. That's likely to be the decisive operation which will crush the life out of Hitler. Other invasions will contribute to victory, but the cross-channel drive, straight through the Boche strength, is held by a great many military men to be essential for the kill.

We don't know what the Allied High Command has in mind at this moment. Invasion across the channel may be uppermost in its thoughts, or it may be far away. However, the point I'm driving at is that a widespread uprising in Europe might impel the Allied to strike quickly.

All this is speculative, of course, but it's worth watching. Meantime the British and American bombing fleets are continuing to iron the Germans out in preparation for the coup de grace. For instance, that Royal Air Force raid on Duisburg — the heaviest ever carried out over Europe — likely in a few hours achieved the destruction which it would have taken a great land army weeks to have done.

Every time we have a great raid like this, we get a jump nearer invasion.

Command in Pacific Is Still Divided

Allied Headquarters in Australia, May 14 (AP)—Command of the vast operations intended ultimately to roll the Japanese back to Tokyo remains divided, but in spirit of perfect coordination, between Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., and General Douglas MacArthur, a spokesman for the general said today.

His comment was in response to questions concerning a dispatch from an advanced South Pacific base which disclosed the two high ranking officers had conferred here recently.

(In the dispatch, Associated Press War Correspondent Leif Erickson quoted a spokesman for Admiral Halsey as explaining offensive and defensive moves against the Japanese in both the Southwest and South Pacific are in charge of General MacArthur, but that Halsey's South Pacific Naval force remained a part of the Pacific Fleet under Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.)

Today the spokesman for General MacArthur said the command situation was the same as it had been, two areas and two commanders — the Southwest Pacific under MacArthur, the South Pacific under Halsey.

(A later dispatch from Erickson, however, quoted the South Pacific headquarters spokesman as reiterating MacArthur "has been and will be responsible for the South and Southwest Pacific theaters in joint operations.")

(The dispatch explained that while this was the status of command in the two areas, actually MacArthur has not yet directed any major operation in the South Pacific as he has been too much occupied in the Australia-New Guinea field and Halsey has had to act independently as circumstances dictated.)

(The War Department in Washington listed Australia, New Guinea, New Britain, New Ireland and the northern end of the Solomons in the Southwest Pacific command; the southern end of the Solomons and islands to the east such as New Caledonia, New Hebrides, Fiji and New Zealand in the South Pacific command.)

The spokesman for General MacArthur said he and Admiral Halsey are "kindred souls and understand each other perfectly."

"One of the most marked features in the campaign in the last year involving the Southwest Pacific area and the South Pacific," the spokesman emphasized, "has been the complete cooperation and coordination effort between the respective commanders and their staffs."

(Erickson's dispatch quoted the admiral's spokesman as saying Halsey's visit was in the nature of "paying his personal respects to the boss.")

In touching upon the subject of divided command, one about which there has been a conspicuous lack of reference in this area in recent months, the spokesman for General MacArthur assured "there need be no fear regarding united action between these two commanders if and when necessity arises."

On the fighting front, General MacArthur's communique reported a heavy Allied raid on the air drome at Gasmata, New Britain, a harmless raid by two Japanese bombers on Port Moresby, New Guinea, and the killing between May 9 and 12 of 95 enemy soldiers in jungle clashes south of Salamaua.

Lumber Officials

Little Rock, May 14 (AP)—Frank Peck, Brinkley, was elected president of the Arkansas Association of lumber dealers here today.

Peck succeeds J. B. Robinson, Little Rock.

Durocher and Frisch Often Banned at Park

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
The funniest extra curricular contest in the National League is the one the baseball writers are running to keep track of whether Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers or Frank Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates gets put out of the most games this year.

The competition always is close between these two free-wheeling vocalists with first one and then the other capturing the annual award. At present their skirmish is tied, each having been banished once by an umpire this spring.

Frisch arrived in town this week and started petting the peyotias at his home in suburban New Rochelle while giving out interviews that he was going to be a good boy this year and not get ejected from any ball games.

But he was a bad boy yesterday and got thrown out of the Pirates' pastime with the Dodgers along with his pitcher, Truett (Rip) Sewell, and First Baseman Elbie Fletcher. With this central corps gone, it was hardly surprising that Pittsburgh finally was beaten 5-4 in the ninth inning on Joe Medwick's pinch single with the bases loaded.

The game had been tight and heated from the start, with the Dodgers themselves engaging in a couple of rounds with the umpires. But coming into the eighth inning the Buccaeters were in front 4 to 3 and all hands were on deck. Then Dixie Walker tripled and Billy Herman was called safe at first, with two out, on a grounder to the pitcher's box. The tying run scored and the Pirates argued loud enough to be heard in Pittsburgh — to no avail of course.

Durocher was tossed out of a game at Boston a few days ago and fined $75 for impugning an umpire's dignity and Frisch presumably will receive a similar telegram from the Office of League President Ford Frick today.

The other leading development in the senior circuit yesterday was that the Philadelphia Phillies divided a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds and moved into the first division. Old St. Johnson pitched four hit ball in the first game, win 2-1 as Earl Naylor hit his third homer. Bert Hays also connected for the circuit for the Reds in the first game and Cincinnati captured the nightcap 3-1 afterword the Phillies announced the purchase of Catcher Babe Phelps from Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Cardinals reinforced their third place position by beating the Boston Braves 5-0 on the four-hit shutout hurling of Ernie White. All the Cardinals runs were scored in the seventh inning.

A pinch home run with two out in the ninth inning by Dick Bartell gave the New York Giants a 7-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs after Carl Hubbell had failed to annex his 250th victory in his first start of the season. This put the Cubs and Giants in a tie for seventh.

In the American League all games went extra innings and the Washington Senators set down the Cleveland Indians 3-2 in 12 frames. The Senators were out 7-5, but a pinch double by Gene Moore in the 12th drove in two runs.

The Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers went into overtime for the second straight day and this time the A's won 2-1 in 13 when Dick Siebert singled home the deciding runner. Credit for the victory went to Rookie Jesse Flores, his fourth straight.

The Boston Red Sox bounced out of their slump finally to stop the St. Louis Browns 6-4 in 12 stanzas with Mike Ryba pitching superlative relief ball. He entered the game in the ninth with the bases loaded and none out and survived to get credit for the victory.

Arkansas Highways Cut in 21 Places

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, May 14 (AP)—Pops at Pop: Although Willie Pep, featherweight champion, New York model, still hasn't been licked by a guy his own size, fight managers can hardly wait until the deadline next week to get in their challenges for title bouts. . . . Latest is Bobb Gleason, who offers Willie a $20,000 guarantee to fight Phil Terranova any time and any place. . . . "I haven't $20,000," Bobby admits "but I have a man ready to pay Pep that much." . . . With Chaiky Wright, Sal Bratolo, Pedro Hernandez and Lulu Constantino also after Pep, you'd almost think that maybe they "see somethings" — probably a sign

Light Snack
Manager Charley Grimm of the Milwaukee Brewers isn't trying to tell Paul Erickson anything about pitching. He said he learned his lesson when Paul first tried out with the Chicago Cubs. . . . Erickson worked in morning batting practice, Grimm recalls, then disappeared. . . . A little later someone reported that a big fellow in a Cub uniform was in a tavern across the street getting ready to work out on a glass of beer and a healthy order of pig knuckles and sauerkraut. . . . Ordered to return to the park, Paul asked in pained tones, "What kind of a ball club is this? Can't a guy take time off for lunch?"

Today's Guest Star

Syracuse, U. S. which couldn't dig up enough men for spring football practice, plans to organize an all-girl band to play at games next fall. . . . Probably the boys will be playing tackles instead of tubas. . . . Looks as if the Pittsburgh Pirates might have made the best choice in the pro football draft. Word from Minneapolis is that several doctors have told Bill Daley that he can't pass the Army tests. . . . The new sports editor of the York, Pa., Gazette and Daily is Thelma Cronin, 19 years old and described as "an attractive blonde."

V Formation
Although the Beulah Park race track is an oval, I like most of them, the "V" (for victory of course) is much in evidence. . . . The winners' enclosure is a "V" instead of a circle, the letter is used to decorate various markers around the track and W. E. Brannon, New Orleans horseman who races there, has a "V" and the three dots and a dash on his racing silks. . . . A few bettors also have been observed passing "V's" through the $5 windows.

Service Dept.
After hest ages the all-soldier boxing show for the Red Cross at Long Branch, N. J., May 25, Corp. Dewe Fragetta, a former New York Sports promoter, will seek promotion for himself. He's due to leave Fort Monmouth for Officer Candidate school at Mississippi State College. . . . Clint Castleberry, frosh star of the Georgia Techback fielders (1 all), has been sent to Center College instead of back to Tech to study military tactics. . . . Big Hugh Cusey, former Dodger now pitching for the Norfolk Naval Station, argues that Leo Durocher really isn't so Lippy. "He just has one of those voices that carries well." . . . It probably carried all the way to Norfolk when Cusey pitched that no-hitter recently.

POULTRY AND PRODUCE
Chicago, May 14 (AP)—Poultry, live; 2 trucks; market unchanged.

NEW YORK STOCKS
New York, May 14 (AP)—Stocks suffered a substantial sell-off today in what brokers termed a "premature peace market." The list was irregular lower at the start in quiet dealings. The pace quickened appreciably in the second hour when leaders in all departments dropped fractions to more than 3 points. There was a subsequent slowdown and, near the close, mild recoveries were the rule.

For the fourth successive session the Associated Press 60-stock average finished on the offside. Transfers were around 1,600,000 shares.

Chattanooga in Tie for Lead in Southern Loop

By PHIP CLARKE
Atlanta, May 14 (AP)—Joseph B. Engel presidential brainstorm behind Chattanooga's baseball fortunes, dusted off his old silk top hat, called in advisors to arrange a five mile parade of pink elephants and considered at length whether to place a call for the White House to arrange a national holiday.

Yessir, Joe's red-hot ball club slipped into a tie for first place in Southern Association standings last night and the colorful proxy is pleased as punch.

Sidewheeler Bucky Jacobs notched his fifth straight triumph by stifling Atlanta's Crackers on four hits as the Lookouts won, 5-4. It was Chattanooga's fourth straight over Atlanta and boosted them into a tie for first with Nashville.

Elsewhere in the loop, New Orleans won a wild one from Memphis, 6-4, while Little Rock's Travelers trounced the Birmingham Barons, 8-3.

Little Rock's lusty hitters got to Baron Pitcher Tom Murray for 16 hits, while Lefty Ed Lopat twirled eight-hit ball to quiet the Birmingham bats. Lopat held the visitors scoreless for six frames and fanned four batters.

Today's games:
Birmingham (Befer) at Little Rock (Moran)
Knoxville (Ogden and Coffman) at Nashville (Singer and Idderson) —doubleheader.
New Orleans (Sanner and Winfield) at Memphis (Veverka and Brown) —doubleheader.
Atlanta (unannounced) at Chattanooga (Cathay).
